Backyard "Tire Fire" to play Savannah

Press Release

Special to the Frontline

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Northerly winds are blowing the Bloomington, Ill. based rock'n'roll trio Backyard Tire Fire into the Savannah area for a show on Feb. 10 at J.J. Cagney's.

This blues, funk, soul and southern rock 'n' roll band is touring the southeast to promote the upcoming release of their second studio effort, "Bar Room Semantics," scheduled for release January 28.

After the nationwide success of their self-titled first studio album and DVD "Blood on the Strings," BTF has been afforded the luxury of quitting their day jobs to play music professionally.

Their notoriety was kick-started by being repeatedly featured on the Chicago radio station WXRT's "Local Anesthetic," where their instant hit, "Gray Sky Blues" became a staple in the show's playlist.

"Gray Sky Blues," is just one of the many memoir-like roadsongs penned by singer/songwriter and lead guitarist Ed Anderson, who formed the band in 2001 in the mountains of Asheville, North Carolina with current drummer Tim Kramp and a Carolina-native on bass.

Shortly thereafter, the band decided to move to what they thought was a Mecca for unsigned bands - Athens, GA. After accumulating enough money to produce their first record, "Live at the Georgia Theatre," the band returned to their roots of Bloomington - the hometown of Kramp and college home of Anderson.

Leaving their original bassist behind, BTF offered the vacant position to Anderson's brother Matt, who joined the band in 2002. The spacious, funkschooled bassist provided the backbone to the band's first studio effort a sound that proves to jive perfectly with the intertwined style of jazz and blues that Kramp supplies on the skins.

This two-headed rhythm monster provides the backdrop for Ed's signature vocals, which like the Beatles, Traffic, Bob are only second to his involuntary guitar playing - electric or acoustic.

While the band continually thrives on three set performances comprised mostly of originals from Ed's hand, covers of bands

Dylan, Tom Petty and Neil Young are sure to supply any live rock connoisseur with an evening of guitar-drenched musical pilgrimage.

FORT BELVOIR, Va. — Sgt. Geno Nash parlayed perseverance and a penchant for Usher into best-of-show honors in the Army's 2005 Stars of Tomorrow entertainment contest Jan.

Nash's medley of Usher tunes also earned him first place in the male vocal solo category of the contest named for Margaret "Skippy" Lynn and held annually at Fort Belvoir, Va.

"He's like my mentor right now," Nash said of R&B artist Usher Raymond, whose fifth album - Confessions - has surpassed 11 million in sales. "I watch his stage performance and how he performs. He's in my vocal range and his music, everybody loves it."

An automatic berth in the U.S. Army Soldier Show's live auditions is one of the perks for winning best of show in Stars of Tomorrow. Nash, however, is scheduled to report for duty in Iraq soon and will miss his second shot at joining the Army's marquee entertainment troupe.

"Third time's the charm maybe," said Nash, 22, a military policeman from Canton, Ohio, stationed at Fort Hood, Texas. "I'll be back again.'

Stars of Tomorrow producer Victor Hurtado doubles as artistic director for the U.S. Army Soldier Show. He expects to work more with Nash upon Nash's return from the desert.

"Geno Nash has been in my workshop for the last two years," Hurtado said. "It's really nice to see his progress and see him using some of the things that he's learned in some of those few minutes that he's spent with us. To see him come here and really connect with the audience, that's what it's all about." Hurtado has promised Nash a spot in the ensuing Soldier Show live auditions following completion of his overseas tour. 'I'm accomplishing what I want to do, slowly but surely," Nash said. "When you win and hear people in the audience say 'you could be big one day' or 'you put on a good show' or 'I look forward to seeing you in the future,' I'm like, 'Yeah.'

"Yeah" is one of Usher's songs that helped Nash earn $6,000 for Fort Hood's Better Opportunities for Single Soldiers program or another Morale, Welfare and Recreation or stuffy nose and gastrointestinal symptoms, such as nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. Gastro-intestinal symptoms are more common in children.

For most people, a visit to the doctor is not necessary. Symptoms can be treated with over-the-counter medication. However, people experiencing high fever, shakes or difficulty breathing should see the doctor as this could indicate a flurelated complication, McQuown said.

"If you know the flu season is upon you, remember common sense and good hygiene" - wash your hands, cover your mouth and nose when coughing or sneezing, avoid large groups of people and stay at home when possible.

If you get sick, rest, drink plenty of fluids, avoid using alcohol or tobacco products and take over-the-counter medication to relieve the symptoms

Flu vaccinations at Winn are available on a walk-in basis from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday thru Wednesday and Friday and 1 to 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday at the Immunization Clinic. Vaccinations at Tuttle are available on a walk-in basis Thursdays only from 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the Immunization Clinic. Vaccinations on other weekdays are available by appointment only. Call 1-800-652-9221 for an appointment. You must have a valid military ID card to be vaccinated.

Here are some things you can do to prevent getting sick:

Avoid close contact. Avoid close contact with people who are sick. When you are sick, keep your distance from others to protect them from getting sick too.

Stay at home when you are sick. If possible, stay home from work, school and running errands when you are sick. You will help prevent others from catching your illness.

Cover your mouth and nose. Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when coughing or sneezing. It may prevent those around your from getting sick. If you don't have a tissue, cough or sneeze into your sleeve.

Clean your hands. Washing your hands often will help protect you from germs.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs are often spread when a person touches something that is contaminated with germs and then touches his eyes, nose or mouth.

Korea, played a saxophone rendition of Al Green's "Let's Stay Together" to win the instrumental solo category. He earned $4,000 for his installation's BOSS or MWR program by finishing second in best of show.

"Musicians in contests like this usually don't place in the overall sector; they just compete in their own category," said Linson, 20, who served as drum major for the Sherman (Texas) High School marching band. "But this time I placed overall and that's great."

Linson also plays the violin, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, and guitar. He can sing, too.

"I love doing anything I can with music," said Linson. He said he is inspired by Earth, Wind & Fire, Al Green, Marvin Gaye and the Commodores. "Music is my love."

Baton twirler Spc. Allison Carpenter of Camp Humphreys, South Korea, won the specialty solo category and took third place in best of show with a dazzling display of knife juggling.

"I don't sharpen them," she said of the 2 _-foot-long knives made of wood and metal. "They're not too sharp but they will break skin."

Čarpenter, who helped the Penn State University Touch of Blue majorettes win four national championships, serves on the BOSS council at Camp Humphreys, which earned $2,000 for her performance.

"I never ever thought that I would be flown to Virginia from Korea to twirl in the Army," said Carpenter, 24, a counterintelligence agent from Altoona, Pa. "There are some very, very talented people here. I'm honored that the judges actually think that I belong in a group with them."

"It's about talent," Hurtado said. "And the highest form of talent, I think, is being able to connect without saying anything."

That certainly was the case for Sgt. Warren White of Fort Lewis, Wash., a mime who captivated the audience and took third place in the specialty solo category.

There were not first, second and third-place winners in every category. Places were awarded by averaging the scores of the six judges. The judges awarded each performer one to 75 points. Every contestant earned another 25 points prior to the show for professionalism based on ability to handle the mission. First-place winners scored between 90 and 100 points; second place required 80-89 points; and 79 points or less qualified for third place.

Army Entertainment Division plans to share the show with Soldiers around the world.

"We're going to do a webcast of this and try to make DVDs to send to Soldiers over in Iraq," Hurtado said. "That's why we had the three cameras filming."

Although the show was postponed one day because of snow, the Soldiers seemed unfazed by gaining an extra day as Stars of Tomorrow.

"It got rid of everybody's nervous jitters and gave us a little time to relax," Nash said of the delay.

"It was just nice to come together and participate in something like this," Carpenter added. "It was a great experience."

Maj. Michael Anti is the 2004 Army Male Athlete of the Year, and Maj. Heidi Grimm and Capt. Anita Allen are co-winners of the Army's Female Athlete of the Year award.

The awards will be presented Feb. 17 during the Association of the United States Army's Winter Symposium in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Anti, 40, of Winterville, N.C., won a silver medal in men's 50-meter three-position rifle shooting in the 2004 Olympics Games at Markopoulo Olympic Shooting Centre in Athens, Greece. A three-time Olympian, he also finished 24th in the men's 50-meter free-rifle prone shooting in the Athens Games.

Grimm, 37, of Rochester, N.Y., won gold medals in the 2004 Armed Forces Triathlon Championships at Naval Base Ventura, Calif., and the 2004 Conseil International du Sport Militaire Triathlon Championships at Belfort, France. She was the first U.S. military female finisher in the 2004 Ironman Triathlon World Championships at Kailua-Kona, Hawaii, with a time of 11 hours, 31 minutes and 5 seconds in the 2.4-mile swim, 112-mile bike and 26.2-mile run.

Grimm also finished second in her age group in the 2004 Army Ten-Miler at Arlington, Va.

Allen, 27, of Star City, Ind., finished 18th in women's modern pentathlon in the Olympic Games at Goudi Olympic Complex in Athens, Greece. The highlight of her five-sport performance there was a first-place ride in the equestrian show-jumping event. She solidified her Olympic berth by winning the women's modern pentathlon in the 2003 Pan American Games at Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic.

Anti, who trains with the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit at Fort Benning, Ga., and Allen, stationed at Fort Carson, Colo., are members of the U.S. Army World Class Athlete Program. Grimm is stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

In addition to their athletic endeavors, the Soldiers' military accomplishments and community service also were considered.

BRADENTON, Fla. — The U.S. Army Pro Stock Motorcycle team, with drivers Angelle Sampey and Antron Brown, broke the magical seven second mark in pre-season testing Jan. 25 at Bradenton Motorsports Park.

Sampey, who is a three-time Pro Stock Motorcycle world champion, recorded a 6.989-second pass at 189.70 mph, before Brown posted a 6.995- second jaunt at 190.35 mph.

"We realize this is just a pre-season test session, but it was pretty darn cool to see both of them get below seven seconds," said Steve Tartaglia, who recently assumed the crew chief duties for the U.S. Army team. "This is something that's never been done before, so we're all pretty pumped up."

Tartaglia credited superb weather conditions in helping Sampey and Brown get down the track the way they did.

"The conditions were pretty awesome," he added. "The temperatures have been pretty cool here. Frankly, we probably should be going a little quicker."

The U.S. Army team will continue testing in Bradenton until Jan. 26 with hopes of improving the best elapsed time to 6.950-seconds.

"There's definitely room for improvement," said

Tartaglia. "Neither of those sub-seven second runs was particularly stellar. We'll just keep working on it."

Sampey and Brown finished second and third, respectively, in the Pro Stock Motorcycle point standings last year. While the 2005 NHRA POWERade Drag Racing Series season starts in Pomona, Calif., Feb. 10-13, the Pro Stock Motorcycles don't hit the track for the first time until the Mac Tools Gatornationals in Gainesville, Fla., March 17-20.

WEST DOINT N.V. Mombo

WEST POINT, N.Y. — Members of the U.S. Military Academy Cadet Glee Club will sing the National Anthem during the pre-game activities of Super Bowl XXXIX in Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 6.

Feb. 6.
Twenty-five Glee Club members will join with 25 singers from each of the other service academies (Navy, Air Force & Coast Guard). The participating male and female cadets represent all four classes at West Point. The joint choir will perform a tribute to veterans, which commemorates the end of World War II. The theme of the Super Bowl pre-game is "bridging generations."

The Glee Club cadets are West

Point's musical ambassadors, performing at high-profile events such as the Fiesta Bowl, the World Series at Yankee Stadium, presidential library events and the commemoration ceremonies at Ground Zero on Sept.

11, 2002.
The mission of the U.S.
Military Academy is to educate, train and inspire the Corps of Cadets, officials said, so that each graduate is a commissioned leader of character committed to the values of Duty, H o n o r,

Country; professional growth throughout a career as an officer in the United States Army; and a lifetime of selfless service to the Nation.

Pre-game coverage will begin at 6:30 p.m. on the Fox network.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Saying "goodbye" once again

Chaplain (Ltc.) Richard Quinn

Deputy Installation Chaplain

Back in the Stone Ages when I came into the Army at Ft. Benning, a chaplain friend and I sang a "Hee-Haw" gag song at a cowboy themed hail & farewell...[sic] "Whar, oh whar are ya tonite? Why dit you leave me here all alone? I searcht da worl over an I thoughst I found true luv; you joint da Army and thhhugghht you was gone!!!".... That was almost 20 years (and many deployments) ago; somehow separation doesn't get any easier.

Visiting the airfield at Hunter, I witnessed what seemed like a million and one emotions in the departing soldiers—each with their own goodbye story-goodbyes to wives, husbands, kids, moms, dads, brothers, sisters, fiancés, friends, pets, and automobiles. Some cry, some laugh, many pretend they simply went to work or TDY and will return in a few days. No matter what we try, the pain of separation still lurks somewhere shallow or deep beneath the surface. As a senior chaplain, I wish I had the answers. Truthfully, I'm still struggling with many of the questions. So I stand on the tarmac once again, wave intently as another thundering bird lifts off, and then stare endlessly into an empty sky.

On a hill outside Jerusalem 2000 years ago, a crowd of about 500 watched in amazement as Jesus ascended into heaven (Acts 1:9-11). Like me, they stood there staring endlessly into an empty sky until two men dressed in brilliant white appeared, "Hey! What you doing here standing around staring into the sky? This same Jesus who was taken up from you will return again just as he went!"

Robert

De Niro

Spanglish (PG-13)

Starring: Adam Sandler, Téa Leoni Tonight at 7 p.m.

When the beautiful native Mexican woman Flor, the mother of a 12-year-old girl, becomes the housekeeper for an affluent Los Angeles family, cultures collide. Of all the horrifying pitfalls she worried about in this new culture,

Flor had never fathomed the peril of being truly embraced by an upscale American family. Run Time: 113 minutes

Meet The Fockers (PG-13)

Starring: Robert De Niro, Ben Stiller Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 7 p.m.

Now that Greg Focker is "in" with his soon-to-be in-laws, it looks like smooth sailing for him and his fiancée, Pam. But that's before Pam's parents meet Greg's parents, the Fockers. The hyperrelaxed Fockers and the tightly-wound Byrneses are woefully mismatched from the start, and no matter how hard Greg and Pam try, there is just no bringing their families together--which all adds up to a disastrously funny time of "getting to know you."

Run Time: 115 minutes

The Lifeaquatic with Steve (R)

Internationally famous oceanographer Steve Zissou and his crew -Team Zissou — set sail on an expedition to hunt down the mysterious, elusive, possibly non-existant Jaguar Shark that killed Zissou's partner during the documentary filming of their latest adventure. They face overwhelming complications including pirates, kidnapping, and bankruptcy.

Run Time: 118 minutes

Starring: Bill Murray, Owen Wilson Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m.
